Pulling the theme all the way through the website is really cool! I don't want to use the same theme, But I do think that the design of this is amazing.

I think that using ROOT as inspiration for my portfolio can really help me think in how to create something that is heavily themed in a very cool and unique way. I think this can help me combine the 2 inspiration pictures above in a design that is completely my own.

I think that the artsy, sketchy style of this is really cool and something that I think could end up being a really good learning process for me. I also think that this makes it even more me and personal.

The only game uses these scrolls as buttons. I think that they could make for some really cool elements for things like buttons as well as an texture for the background that is made of those old parchment papers.

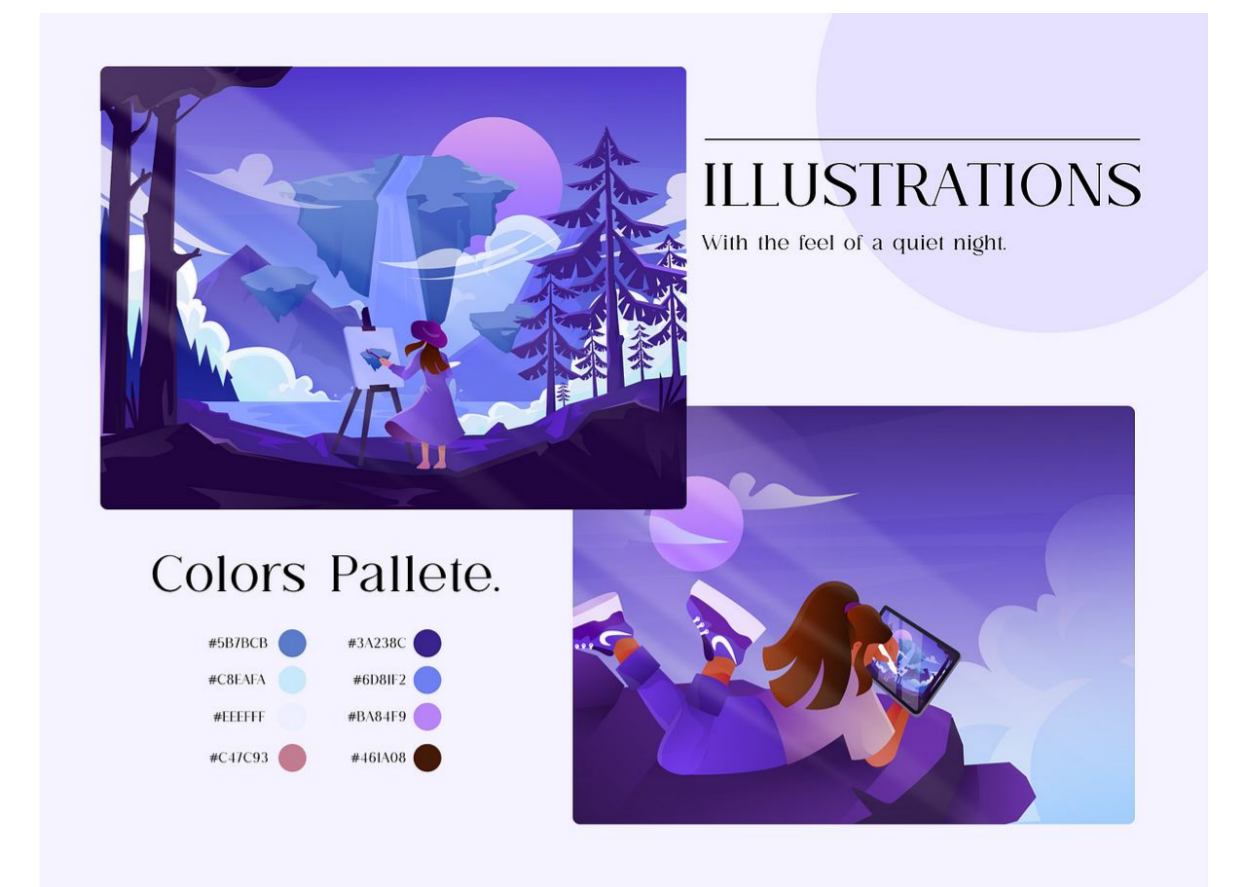

In the boardgame everyone has these meeples that represent their warriors. I think that I can easily make a minimalistic illustration of these meeples so that I can use them as little icons to represent the different learning outcomes.

This webpage feels like it kind of tells a story when you scroll down. And I really like the idea of that. That by following the illustrations as you scroll down, You get to know the characters and the business a little bit better.

This whole website feels super magical, and I really like the scroll down animation on it. I don't know if this is something that I'll be able to do, But I do really like the idea of it.

I really like the idea of doing something like this with the footer. In ROOT everything is centred around these clearings that are surrounded by forest and I think I'd be really cool if I could illustrate something like that for the footer.
